

EAST SIDE'S GALA NIGHT.

CORLEARS HOOK-FARM OPENED IN A BLAZE OF GLORY.

The Mayor, City Officials, and a vast throng on hand for the ceremony last evening. Music, fireworks, dancing and a banquet followed the opening of the park. The Corlears Hook Farm was formally opened last evening, and fully 10,000 men, women, and children were on hand to witness the ceremony.

THE LOOKOUT.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the band struck up on the national anthem, and the entire square bounded by South, Jackson, Cherry, and Corlears streets was illuminated by brilliant fire. The park for the neighborhood was decorated with flags and Chinese lanterns, and huge lime lights were placed on the band stand.

On the west side of the park, running parallel with Cherry street, is the "Lookout," a fine structure of freestone and Georgia pine, of romantic architecture. The building will

WHO'S WHO AT CONEY ISLAND?

Justice at Odds as to Their Powers in Hall Cases.

Police Justice Nostrand and Justice of the Peace Chambers, who look after the criminals at Coney Island, have a difference. On Sunday Anna Clyne was arrested for stealing $15 from John Oleson, a contractor from this city, in a saloon on Surf avenue. The young woman was about to be locked up for the night when John Dunn, a former policeman during the McKean administration, handed a bail bond for $1,000 to Sergeant Speckley and asked for the prisoner's release.

The bond was signed "Albert Chambers, Justice of the Peace, Coney Island." The sergeant allowed the woman to go. Yesterday morning when the case was called in Court Miss Clyne pleaded up with her counsel, George Eldridge, stepped out guilty, and was held for examination on Friday. The prisoner was about to leave the court room when Justice Nostrand shouted:

"Wait a moment; this bond is signed by Justice Chambers, who is not a Justice of the Peace, and I am of the opinion that the act annexing the town of Coney Island to the city of New York is void. I am of the opinion that the act annexing the town of Coney Island to the city of New York is void. I am of the opinion that the act annexing the town of Coney Island to the city of New York is void."

The bond was cancelled and a new bond was drawn and signed by Justice Nostrand. The bond was cancelled and a new bond was drawn and signed by Justice Nostrand. The bond was cancelled and a new bond was drawn and signed by Justice Nostrand.

YACHT COMMENCEMENT.

The Graduation Exercises Held Last Night in Carnegie Hall.

The forty-sixth annual commencement of St. Francis Xavier College, in West Fifteenth street, was held last night in Carnegie Hall. The exercises were presided over by the Rev. Father McGinley, and the twenty-two members of the graduating class in cap and gown.

The program consisted of the awards of medals, conferring of degrees, addresses by several of the graduates, and a short address by Archbishop Corrigan, and classical selections by the college orchestra.

The valedictory was delivered by Alfred J. Taylor. The three other speakers were Edward F. McGinley, Standard of Morality; John J. Crosey and John J. Burke on "Democracy," and John J. Burke on "The Future of the Outgoing class." The highest honors were won by John Joseph Burke. He also received the gold medal for natural sciences. The gold medal for mental philosophy went to James Vincent Lewis. Walter Geoffrey Butler won the gold medal for applied mathematics.

Gen. Aguerre's Son in Jail for Larceny.

ELIZABETH, June 22.—Carlos Aguerre, 17 years old, is in jail here charged with larceny. He is the son of Gen. Aguerre, who is a commander in the Argentine army, and his uncle is both the Spanish troops in Havana.

The boy's mother lives in New York, and young Carlos worked for an uncle, Dr. G. Gates, who keeps a drug store in Westfield. Dr. Gates sleeps in a room just over the store. He was awakened one night by a noise, and when he went to the store he saw a man trying to force an entrance through a window, and was about to shoot when he recognized the person as young Aguerre.

Dr. Gates made a formal complaint against Aguerre charging him with the theft of some cigars and books last Wednesday night, when he forced an entrance through a window. The young Cuban was arrested and sent to jail.

Drowned Men Found in the North River.

Capt. Rae of the tug James J. Austin discovered the body of a man yesterday afternoon in the North River and towed it up to one of the Erie railway piers in Jersey City. The man is about 40 years old, 5 feet 9 inches high, smooth face, light complexion, sandy hair, and dressed in a brown coat and vest and light trousers. He had a gold watch and chain, two keys, and eight-seven cents in his pocket. No papers were found on him which would aid in identifying him. He answers the description of the man who jumped from the Pennsylvania Railroad ferry last night, and who was found dead in the North River.

The body of Joseph McGuire, 42 years old, was found in the North River yesterday afternoon while swimming off the Communipaw docks, was recovered by the tug yesterday evening and taken to Speer's Morgue.

Hammerstein and the Ticket Speculators.

The fight between Oscar Hammerstein and the ticket speculators went merrily on last night in front of the Olympia Theatre, where there was a throng of speculators and a large number of men who were not carried into effect. A man who said he was a lawyer bought a ticket from a speculator and started for the roof garden. He was stopped by the doorman, who refused to accept the ticket.

The lawyer asked to see Mr. Hammerstein, and when the latter appeared, he was again refused, and the man went to the box office and purchased another ticket on which he was allowed to enter. He kept the ticket that he had bought from the speculator, saying he intended to sue Hammerstein and test the validity of tickets purchased from speculators.

Killed by the Heat.

Catherine Kille of 693 Third avenue was found unconscious on the sidewalk in front of 613 Third avenue yesterday afternoon. She died shortly after being taken to the East Thirty-fifth street station. An ambulance surgeon who examined her said her death was due to heat.

Charles Johnson, 28 years old, of 280 West Twenty-third street, was overcome by heat at West 42nd and Clarkson streets, and removed to St. Vincent's Hospital.

A. E. O. Official and Canada's Politics.

WOODSOKET, N. J., June 22.—A mass meeting of French Canadians here last evening resolved that they recognize in the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier the most distinguished son of the French race in America, that they ardently plead for his success, and that they urge their brethren in the province of Quebec to do all possible to place him in the office of Prime Minister of the Dominion.

Glezer, a French Canadian, inspector of customs at the Port of Providence, presided.

The Work of the Pupils of the Manual Training High School.

The work of the pupils of the Manual Training High School will be exhibited to the public at the school building in Court and Livingston streets to-day, and on Wednesday and Thursday. The exhibition is open from 10 o'clock to 4 o'clock. The pupils of the school are showing their work in various branches of manual training, including carpentry, metalworking, and drawing.

The exhibition is open from 10 o'clock to 4 o'clock. The pupils of the school are showing their work in various branches of manual training, including carpentry, metalworking, and drawing.

The exhibition is open from 10 o'clock to 4 o'clock. The pupils of the school are showing their work in various branches of manual training, including carpentry, metalworking, and drawing.

The exhibition is open from 10 o'clock to 4 o'clock. The pupils of the school are showing their work in various branches of manual training, including carpentry, metalworking, and drawing.

The exhibition is open from 10 o'clock to 4 o'clock. The pupils of the school are showing their work in various branches of manual training, including carpentry, metalworking, and drawing.

BENJ. H. BRISTOW DEAD.

PERITONITIS AFTER AN OPERATION FOR APPENDICITIS.

Secretary of the Treasury for Two Years—His Famous Whiskey Ring Fight—A Union Soldier from Kentucky—Candidate in the National Convention in 1876.

Gen. Benjamin Helm Bristow died yesterday morning at his residence, 27 West Fifth street, after an illness of only a few days. On Thursday last he developed symptoms of appendicitis, and an operation was performed to relieve him. Peritonitis developed later, and from this he died. Gen. Bristow was born in Elkton, Todd county, Ky., sixty-four years ago.

After graduation at Jefferson College, Pennsylvania, in 1851, he studied law and was admitted to the Kentucky bar two years later. He began practice in his native town, but removed later on to Hopkinsville. At the beginning of the war, when the sentiment of the State was undecided between secession and the Union, Gen. Bristow entered the army as a Lieutenant.

He was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

he was in the United States Army, and was appointed Surgeon-General of the United States, and was wounded at Shiloh. Later he became Colonel of the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry and he served through the campaign with distinction. While still in the army he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky for four years, but he resigned after serving from 1863 to 1865. For the following five years

We're not in business for fun, glory or great Honors.

We're chasing and alluring the dollars our way. Here's the allurement.

A cool, comfortable half or full lined blue serge suit, warranted fast color or your money back, at Also in blacks.

Brill Brothers
Outfitters to Men.

THREE STORES: 279 Broadway, Near Chambers, 217 Cortlandt, Near Greenwich, 211 Sixth Ave., Near 14th Street.

Shoes, Hats and Furnishings.

Silver Loving Cups, a large assortment of good styles for prizes.

THEODORE B. STARR,
206 Fifth Avenue,
Madison Square.

although he managed by hard labor to secure a little home of his own, he was never able to save any money. Four years ago he became suddenly and unexpectedly rich, by the death of an uncle in England, but a year elapsed before he secured his fortune. He came back from England with his health and built a fine new home for himself and family in one of the most fashionable streets in Flatbush, and also invested largely in real estate there. He had a large retinue of servants and a fine stable of horses. For three years he had been one of the most notable figures in the old town. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Engine Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

George B. Bartlett, the historian of Concord, Mass., died Sunday night in Bristol, R. I., where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Concord, Mass., in 1812. He was a member of the Concord Fire Engine Company, and the Concord Fire Engine Company. He was also a member of the Concord Fire Engine Company, and the Concord Fire Engine Company.

William Van Kuren, a wealthy contractor, died Sunday night in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

Samuel S. Ames died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of his mother, Eleanor Ames, in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

William Van Kuren, a wealthy contractor, died Sunday night in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

Samuel S. Ames died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of his mother, Eleanor Ames, in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

William Van Kuren, a wealthy contractor, died Sunday night in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

Samuel S. Ames died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of his mother, Eleanor Ames, in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

William Van Kuren, a wealthy contractor, died Sunday night in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

Samuel S. Ames died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of his mother, Eleanor Ames, in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

William Van Kuren, a wealthy contractor, died Sunday night in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

Samuel S. Ames died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of his mother, Eleanor Ames, in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

William Van Kuren, a wealthy contractor, died Sunday night in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

Samuel S. Ames died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of his mother, Eleanor Ames, in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

William Van Kuren, a wealthy contractor, died Sunday night in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

Samuel S. Ames died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of his mother, Eleanor Ames, in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

William Van Kuren, a wealthy contractor, died Sunday night in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

Samuel S. Ames died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of his mother, Eleanor Ames, in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

William Van Kuren, a wealthy contractor, died Sunday night in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

Samuel S. Ames died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of his mother, Eleanor Ames, in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

William Van Kuren, a wealthy contractor, died Sunday night in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

Samuel S. Ames died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of his mother, Eleanor Ames, in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

William Van Kuren, a wealthy contractor, died Sunday night in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club, the Flatbush Athletic Club, and the Flatbush Golf Club. He was also a member of the Flatbush Fire Company, and the Flatbush Fire Engine Company.

Samuel S. Ames died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of his mother, Eleanor Ames, in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was born in Flatbush, where he had been staying for the last few days. He was a member of the Flatbush Club,